JOCELYN WARNER

Jocelyn Warner made her name with her botanical-themed wallpapers featuring leaves and delicate blooms. Not content with sorting out our walls, however, she has now turned her attention to our floors. Bloom is her first rug design – a stunning representation of a single peony which looks a teeny bit Charles Rennie Mackintosh and a bit oil painting – a single flower occupies the whole rug. £1600 (183cm x 183cm).

From 1970s flamboyance to 1960s chic, we all love a splash of retro style. Living Retro is a great chance to nose around some of the world's most fabulous retro interiors – including fun, colourful 1960s Palm Beach interiors and the more pared-down simplicity of Scandinavian mid-century modern styles – where original period fixtures and fittings complement fabrics and furniture to create authentic vintage interiors – many of which look surprisingly fresh and modern.

looking hot

We like our home furnishings to be good at multitasking here at Fabric, so this month we'll be warming ourselves while checking that we look at our best in front of this radiator-come-mirror by Tubor One. And an inbuilt LED clock helps ensure we'll be on time for all those hot dates.
